THE EVENING STAR.

WASHINGTON.

TUESDAY ...... January 22, 1895. CROSBY S. NOYES......Editor

THE EVENING STAR has a regular and permanent circulation much more than the combined circulation of the other Washington dailies. As a News and Advertising Medium it has no competitor.

TIn order to avoid delays, on account of personal absence, letters to THE STAR should not be addressed to any individual connected with the office, but simply to THE STAR, or to the Editorial or Business Departments, according to tenor or purpose.

The alleged blackmailing letter which was received by the local gas company has no bearing upon and should not be permitted to affect the question whether that company ought not to supply cheaper and better gas to Washington consumers. If it were proven that any representative of a proposed new gas company had made blackmailing advances, the prospects of obtaining for that company incorporating and favoring legislation would of course be irstantly and properly annihilated; but as affecting the price and quality of the gas furnished by the existing company the attempted blackmailing would have nothing to do with the case. The Senate committee's decision of the question whether the gas company cannot improve the quality of its product and supply the improved gas with a reasonable profit at a lower rate will of course be based upon the testimony on these points already in the possession of Congress, given recently before the House and Senate District Committees, and, earlier, before another Senate District committee as the result of Senator Spconer's investigations. The Senate committee will deal justly by the local gas consumer, no matter whether the motives of advocates of proposed substitutes for the existing gas company be good Washington has no sympathy with the blackmailing operations of bogus applicants for gas franchises, and also dreads any comprehensive tearing up of its streets that might follow the success of a competitor in good faith. But the capital city wants the company in possession to supply it with as good gas and as cheap gas as any other community enjoys, and it expects its legislature to enact the laws necessary to this end.

A great organized effort is about to be made in behalf of this city's poor. Much has been done, but much more remains to be accomplished. The Citizens' Central Relief Committee has made arrangements for a house-to-house canvass which ought to result in charitable contributions that in the aggregate should be sufficient to supply the needy with enough of food, fuel and clothing to last them until the coming of spring. The success of this canvass depends almost entirely upon the enthuslastic efficiency of those who are chairmen of districts. These have been nominated by the committee charged with that duty. It is probable that some of the persons so nominated may imagine themselves unable to attend to the district allotted to them, but, unless acceptance is absolutely impossible, the nominees are urged to yield to the promptings of benevolence and public spirit, to take up the slight burden and to do the best they can. The spirit of the season is self-sacrificing charity, and that the greatest of virtues has permeated many minds has been evidenced by the liberal responses made to every recent appeal-for contributions of time, money or general supplies-published in behalf of the poverty-stricken people of this com-

Boston's board of aldermen has adopted a rule that "No license shall be granted for exhibitions of pugilism or wrestling. For a long while Boston was the great ra tional center of fistiana; the city bubbled over with enthusiasm whenever mention was made of Professor John Lawrence Sullivan and sneered in a most trritating fashion at the idea that anyone other than a Bostonian would ever be able to cope with the muscular greatness and agile science of him who is now unbonored and unsung A vast deal of experience has, however, convinced even the Boston aldermen that the exhibitions of pugilism so common today are wholly discreditable both to the parties participating and to those who are responsible. Similar discovery was made In this city some time ago-The Star having directed the attention of public opinion in that direction-and now when the tough element in the District of Columbia wants to enjoy a slugging match it has to step across the boundary line either into Virginia or Maryland.

Among the many disadvantages of that crude system of street-car propulsion known generally as the overhead trolley is one to which no reference seems to have been made until the riotous behaviour of striking street-car operators in Brooklyn directed attention to it-that is, the ease with which a line can be disabled. When the strikers found their themselves unable to persuade men who took their places to forsake the cars, they straightway proceeded to unguarded points of the road and there cut the trolley wires, thus rendering impossible, for several hours after each cut, the working of that particular road. It may be that by and by the companies will come to the conclusion that the overhead system is after all much more expensive than one which provides for the wire in a conduit which would be practically burglar-proof.

One hundred and fifty-eight men at work on the new city post-office today! So says the official report and that cannot safely be contradicted. These figures are away ahead of any yet published in connection with the slow up-rising of a structure in which the people of Washington are deeply interested. In view of the tremendous increase of the working force of late, it is no longer absurd to imagine that the building will be completed prior to the year

The "tin soldier" sneer has been temporarily silenced by the admirable manner in which the national guardsmen at Brooklyn are doing the duty which the state has called them out to perform. Of all the varicties of courage necessary to military success none outranks that which has been displayed by the soldiers in question during the past few days-while they have been engaged in doing similar duty to that done by troops of the regular army and Illinois national guard at Chicago last summer. One of the greatest of warriors once eulogized "five-o'clock-in-the-morning courage." There seems to be plenty of that quality in Brooklyn just now, but it is unquestionably inferior to the courage that keeps trained fighting men cool and inactive when scores of angry lawbreakers or would-he lawbreakers jeer at them and throw missiles of all sorts in their direction with deadly intent. Mankind of the on sort finds it comparatively rush excited into the heat and smoke of battle; most men are brave enough for that. But it is another thing to tramp up and down in the presence of a howling mob whose taunts are more piercing than bullets and refrain from exercising the natural right of reply and reprisal; it would be much easier to indulge in a hand-to-hand encounter than to appear unconcerned under such circumstances. Yes the soldiers in Brooklyn have done this from the hour when they were first called out; they have earned all the applause From the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette. which will be given them. Of course they are being and will be abused by those who And there may be others.

see in them only obstacles to desired disorder, but the good citizen who regards the law and who knows that in the hands of all voting American citizens is the remedy for any approach to un-American government will approve the conduct of those who from purely patriotic motives are now doing what they can to prevent rioting and bloodshed in the great city of Brooklyn. The mob, too, should not hesitate to commend the behavior of the soldiers, for the mob has been the beneficiary of military patience; many times has there been opportunity for slaughter by the troops, but in mercy they have refrained from exercising their powers. It is more than likely that within a few hours there will come sanguinary conflict, for the situation is unlike any of the situations that have preceded it. For awhile the struggle was to operate the tied-up reads, but that having up to this time been impossible, concentrated effort must now be made to break up the mobs and bring about normally peaceful conditions by the exercise of force. In this necessary work the national guardsman pays no heed to the equities between the parties with whom the disagreement originated: he is an officer of the law and will surely do that which his cath requires of him. The national guardsman deserves very much more of consideration than has ever been given him; he is the least exand the most effective peace officer this country has ever had.

It may seem ungracious to criticise what any one does for the memory of the dead, but one cannot help thinking that if Mr. William Waldorf Astor, instead of spending $50,000 for the floral decoration of his wife's grave for a year, had contributed that sum to the endowment of a hospital or the purchase of a country summer home, bearing her name, for poor children, he would have done her a greater honor and himself more

There seems to have arisen an impression among people who have taken sides in the matter that the population of the United States is divided into two clases; personal friends and personal enemies of Judge

The observation of the Emperor William to the effect that this country outstrips Germany in some respects was not intended to invite attention to the different methods by which the two countries are governed.

After his description of himself it is believed that little Willie Cook was arrested for nothing at al, and charged with being an outlaw by some policeman who wanted to make a case.

The manner in which Japan is landing armies on her territory is annoying to China in many ways, but it offers her a golden opportunity to take a census.

With reference to the supreme court decision on the sugar trust there is no one to deny that Mr. Olney told us so.

Mr. Boutelle is evidently determined that somebody shall sit down on the sharp end of an interrogation point.

Then why did the diplomatio 1875 give us supervision of its diplomatio relations? Why does a treaty negotiated by President Cleveland himself forbid Hawaii to cede or lease its territory without our consent? Why did President Cleveland our consent? Why did President Cleveland himself a few days ago send to Congress the plea of Hawaii to be permitted to let an English company land a cable on its shores? Do these acts indicate "entirely independent" relations? Is there any country altogether "foreign to us" of which the street are true? Do we control the these things are true? Do we control the diplomacy, hold a mortgage on the terri-tory and enjoy a veto on cable connections of any other country?
